Just finished taking NBME 15...I'll agree with everyone else as well and say that there were way more UWorld style questions. A lot more vague symptoms too (way less "buzzwords") and more questions (I thought) where I was wavering between a couple answers. A lot more questions than the other NBME that I just straight up guessed on.

Don't forget that incidence is the number of new cases which emerge in an unaffected population. Incidence is trying to get at the question -> "In a given year, how many new people develop this disease?" In other words, you cannot count people who already have the disease. You have to exclude those people from your calculation.
